Fire Protection Ltd is part of the Hotchkiss Group and one of Britain's leading manufacturers and installers of fire-resistant ductwork. Fire Protection Ltd markets the Flamebar range of passive fire-resistant products, including the highly successful BW11 and BW18 fire-rated duct systems.

Our reputation for innovative technology and service reliability is industry wide and our fire-resistant products and services safeguard many of Britain's most prestigious buildings.

From a global perspective Firespray International Limited provide our systems via an extensive network of approved licensees.

Our pioneering fire-rated ductwork systems result from expertise in two technologies, ductwork manufacturing and the production of fire-resistant coatings – creating an unrivalled system of fire protection, far in advance of the more traditional competitor products. A continuous research and development programme ensures that we meet building specifiers most demanding requirements, by setting new standards in the industry. Our products are exhaustively tested to meet, and often exceed, all statutory European (BSEN 1366 Parts 1, 8 and 9), British (BS467 Part 24) and ISO 6994 Standards.

As the leader in our field, we work closely with our clients, not only providing exhaustively tested products but also ensuring that our technical support is always available at every stage in the project.
